

The Conscious Witness Project (CWP)

The theme for this Deep Inquiry Project is: What role can and does the Conscious Witness play in shifting conflictual patterns towards healing and thus transforming humanity's perception of Life?

Since 2016, a team from THC has been exploring the Conscious Witness through different modes of inquiry. We set the intention as: 1) to become aware of the impact of witnessing, whether in a small circle of participants in a workshop, or during local, national, or global events; and 2) to encourage the development of the Conscious Witness as a necessary aspect of societal transformation—moving from social action (polarized) to sacred activism (beyond polarization).

The researchers are: Diana Claire Douglas (Constellator and THC lead), Rosalba Stocco (Constellator in Stage 1); Peter Stefanyi (trained Quantum Physicist and Coach); and Judy Wilkins-Smith (Constellator). They are supported by THC's core team and a number of engaged participants who are representatives in the Constellations.

As of 2022 they can name four stages in this Inquiry:

1. Exploring the different kinds of witnesses — who they are, how many there are, what their developmental pathway is, what their impact is.
2. Peter did quantum-like experiments to test underlying assumptions about the quantum theory that the observer affects what is observed.
3. Judy, Diana Claire and Peter explored the question "What is the relationship between the Knowing Field and the Quantum Field?" using the phenomenological approach of Systemic Constellation Work as the methodology. Peter then applied his quantum perspective in harvesting the results.
4. Having laid the groundwork, Diana Claire, Judy and Peter are now shifting their phenomenological experiments to explore questions that quantum science might ask and applying these to the different kinds of witnesses.

The Deep Inquiry continues.